One of the educational forms that is important in the military-patriotic education of the student youth is the holding of meetings with veterans of war and labor. Veterans of war and labor have rich combat, Labor and life experiences, and their knowledge is of great importance in educating the younger generation in the spirit of patriotism. Veterans are ardent promoters of the glorious Martial and labor traditions of our state, our people. They are ready for everything so that the memories of the courage of our people do not fade and become forgotten. Meetings with veterans turn into memorable events filled with deep patriotic content.

Helping young people to have a full tassavur about the heroic past of our people, the historical significance of our independence, are the proud duties of our veterans. In the process of meetings with students, veterans talk not only about courage, but also about how a person should prepare himself for the fulfillment of his civic duty, to educate his own actions and a sense of responsibility for the fate of the motherland.

Veterans are actively involved in organizing and conducting activities with an educational orientation. Together with young people, they organize and hold thematic evenings, conferences, doclades and conversations, photo exhibitions, as well as disputs dedicated to historical dates, courage Classes, 3 generation meetings and other events. We quote some of them by their themes:

"The mercenaries guard the Fatherland ", "we will not give you to anyone-Uzbekistan", "independence-in my destiny", etc.

There are many problems that have not yet found a solution when organizing and holding meetings with the lekinfachrians. Sometimes we witness that the night and meetings about" combat and labor fame " are held simply superficially, formally, in a boring way. Such superficially organized events will definitely not arouse interest in young people, will not be able to pass the impressions intended for their military-patriotic upbringing. One of the reasons for such negative situations is the fact that these events are not well prepared, because, when conducting such events, there will be not enough combat and labor services for any person to participate in it. This person should again be able to speak excitedly, confidently about courage, responsibility, attract readers to his story or conversation, arouse strong interest in them. That is why it is advisable to talk to invited veterans in advance, tell them about the characteristics of the attending students at night, give advice and exhibitions on how to attract their attention. In turn, students should also be prepared for such meetings. By telling them information about the veteran and revealing his inner spiritual world to readers, it is possible to increase interest in him.

It is advisable to associate the conversation of the guest of honor with the work of the reader, their achievements in continuing the traditions of our ancestors. The story of the guest of Honor should be drawn to the fact that young people are rich in adventures, have interesting information, activate in them the ability to deal with such people, form their needs and strive to follow the example of courageous people with a high civic duty, help them mentally educate themselves in the protection of the motherland.

Such meetings should serve to activate the internal experiences of the personality of readers, teach them to look at the events and events in the story of the veteran with a sense of humor. One of the important educational significance of these meetings is the exhortation of veterans to young people to Holy knowledge of the combat and labor traditions of our armed forces and our people and become their worthy followers. This advice or wishes of veterans can be verbally stated or issued in Wall newspapers.

One of the conditions for improving the effectiveness of meetings with veterans is the fact that they are held in places associated with a specific event or event in their life. The meeting place should direct its participants to a sincere conversation, serve to shape the perception of mutual understanding between veterans and young people, and arouse interest in these meetings in students.

Holding meetings with veterans is an important resource in the formation of youth spirituality, moral health. It means traditions, traditions, traditions passed down from generation to generation, as well as attention to the interests and aspirations of our young people. The deep worries, moods, vivid memories of our veterans at these meetings serve as the spiritual basis of upbringing.

Today we are living and working to build a democratic just society. This is a self-indulgence of vital perseverance and perfection. There is no place here for spiritual emptiness or uncivilization at all. Therefore, special attention is paid to the problems of spiritual and moral renewal and purification. The beginning of the reform and renewal of our society, with traditions, strong layers of national spirituality, morality and culture are emerging. Our veterans, of course, have their place in the implementation of these works. They are diligently working on the path of the great future of our motherland, playing an important role in the upbringing of the younger generation.
